1. Arseniy SWIDERSKIY of Surahammar, Sweden visited the Soviet Union in Aug 1965 and saw his son Alexander SWIDERSKIY of Cherkassy who came for that purpose to Yalta, Crimea.

According to A.S. jr "now, after Khrushchev's removal all people who had unjustly suffered in the course of expropriations in 1930's can appeal ~~now~~ to authorities for indemnity". ← - ✓ 2 - X

According to the same Source the situation in the Soviet Union has generally improved but people are still dissatisfied.

People think that the present leadership of the Soviet Union won't last long and expect further changes.

2. Rylap ROMANOVSKIY of SHEVDE ( phonetic spelling), Sweden , aged 70, and his wife visited the Soviet Union also in Aug 1965 and saw B's sister-in-law who lives in DNEPROPETROVSK. During their stay in YALTA B's sister-in-law told them that there is in DNEPROPETROVSK a military zone to which no civilians are admitted. "No one can get in or out of there". "They are manufacturing there something but no one knows what". " Inside ( the zone) there also many prisoners (zakluchonni) mostly from West Ukraine".
